

Spiritual and Moral Development

Year 9 Home Learning Task 3

For Spiritual and Moral Development (SMD) you will have a 3 hour homework project which can be worked on over three weeks. You will be set one project per term which compliments the unit you will be studying. You must have your home learning project it handed in by the deadline issued by your teacher which is on the home-learning calendar. Failure to hand your home learning project in on time will result in a homework failure on your record as well as a teacher set detention

Background to the task.

Your final topic this year is looking at the concept of the 'Soul' and different religious and non-religious ideas about life after death. Your final project in class this year will be to produce a piece of art work based on your own beliefs about the soul/the essence of who you are. You are also able to incorporate any other beliefs you have about the end of life, or indeed the meaning of life.

The task

Your home learning is to support your final piece of art work and collect images/words/song lyrics to help you create your own interpretation of the soul. You may also support your class work by bringing in your own materials. This will be further discussed in lessons.
